Year in Review

In the latter part of 2009, the entire Police Department, both civilian and sworn, had the privilege of an all-day training session presented by Mr. Gordon Graham. As indicated in the photo, Mr. Graham's training is never boring! His unique and humorous style drive home the essential points of ethics, risk management and customer service. Mr. Graham is a former California Highway Patrol Captain and a civil attorney specializing in public safety issues.

Investigators with the Special Enforcement Team conducted 95 background investigations; subsequently, 22 new employees were hired, with 15 of those for police officer positions.

With the vast increase of computer technologies being integrated into our law enforcement operations, the Department has recently added an officer to the Systems Management Section. Virtually all police employees use technology daily to perform their respective jobs. The Information Systems Officer is a specialized and skilled position focused on maintaining, enhancing and creating software systems for all the various functions performed by Police Department members.
